Fair Play is an historical block which first makes its appearance in 1901 in the Ladies Art Company catalog of quilt blocks. This uses a wonderful tool set called “View & Do” (by Kaye Wood) which are a series of circular ring templates. The current raw edge quilting technique made this a quick quilt to create. The use of many bright prints and combining colors without the thought of “matching” allows quilters to really play with their blocks! I spanned 100 years of quilting in just a few hours of sewing for a bright and sassy play quilt for a lucky child. These nine 10” blocks can easily be finished in our class time.

Handout and pattern supplied.

Note: This class is limited to 20 students, but I will add up to three more students with a $10 fee per extra student.
